Miscellanies in Q U A R T O.

- 296 IL Decameron di Messer Giovanni Boccaccio, in Royal paper, beautifully bound in Morrocco Leather, finish'd with a Border of Gold and middle piece on the Cover, and gilt on the Leaves, publish'd by the Ingenious Sig. Rolli, 2 l 2 s Lond.
N. B. The above is an exact Copy of the old uncastrated Edit. that has been sold for Thirty Pounds, it is beautifully printed on a curious Roman Character, and is a most Correct Edit.

The same Book on the Common Paper, bound in Morrocco, 1 l 1 s.

Just Publish'd, beatifully printed with the Author's Effigy, Engrav'd by Mr. Virtue.

- 279 II CORTEGIANO: Or, The COURTIER, Written by the Learned Conte Baldassar Castiglione, and a New Version of the same, into English, together with his other Celebrated Pieces, as well Latin as Italian both in Prose and Verse, to which is prefix'd the Life of the Author, by A. P. Castiglione, Gent.

Extract from the Life of the Author.

- Having dispatch'd his Negotiations in that Court (meaning
 - the English, where he had been Embassador) he return'd to
 - Urbino, where to gratify the pressing Instances of Alfonso Ari-
 - osto his particular Friend, he gave a Beginning to those incom-
 - parable Books of the Courtier, which he compleated at Rome
 - 1516. By them it may easily be conceiv'd, how knowing he
 - was in, and familiar with the Greek and Latin Authors, having
 - abstracted and glean'd the finest Flowers of their Wit, and
 - Treasur'd up, as it were, in a Single Cabinet, the richest
- Jewels

• Jewels of Antiquity: So that it is not to be wonder'd if that
 • Book of his was so universally well receiv'd both in Italy and
 • Abroad, that it was translated into so many Languages, reprin-
 • ted so often, in the Course of a few Years, read again and again
 • by all kinds of People, and admir'd without Exception. If
 • you seek for the Italian Tongue in its Perfection no one hath
 • excell'd him, insomuch that the very Florentines but little
 • prais'd by him, are yet oblig'd to hold it in the highest Esteem
 • and propose it as the Model of fine Writing. If you seek for • Entertainment, there is not a Book more delightful than his • Courtier. If for profitable Reading, you can no where borrow
 • a better System for living than from him. In fine, 'tis of such
 • worth and excellence, that if a Person were furnish'd with no
 • other Reading than that Book, and it well imprinted on his
 • Mind, he might pass not only for a Man of Learning and Sci-
 • ence, but by a strict observance of its Precepts might moreover
 • make himself distinguish'd for a Person of Wisdom, Nobility,
 • of Birth and Fitness to keep Company with the greatest Poten-
 • tate whatsoever. 10 s 6 d
